

Mary Doucette (she/her) is Land Stewardship Manager with Buzzards Bay Coalition. Growing up on Cape Cod, Mary spent much of her adolescence exploring the natural world of the lower and outer Cape. Since she couldn't imagine being more than 10 minutes from a beach, she attended Eckerd College in Saint Petersburg, Florida, and earned bachelor's degrees in environmental studies and sociology. Mary spent her summers on the Cape volunteering with the Dennis Conservation Land Trust, Wild Care, Monomoy National Wildlife Refuge, and Sipson Island Trust, before joining the Brewster Conservation Trust as their summer stewardship intern. Her two summers with BCT ignited her passion for land stewardship and led her to serve with AmeriCorps Cape Cod. Her placements with the Brewster Conservation Trust and Wellfleet Conservation Trust solidified her goal to pursue a career in land stewardship. After completing her term with ACC, she began her position with the Buzzards Bay Coalition, where she has worked since 2021.
