

Olivia Houde (she/her) is the Stewardship Coordinator at the Greater Worcester Land Trust. She graduated from Westfield State University with a B.S. in Regional Planning in 2022, interning with the Pioneer Valley Planning Commission in the Historic Planning department. She served with TerraCorps as a Land Stewardship Coordinator with GWLT from 2022 to 2024, then was hired full-time to assist with stewarding the 2,000+ acres of land protected in and around the city, along with helping lead events and work on the farm. The outdoors were always a part of her life growing up in Central Massachusetts, for which she is deeply grateful. In her copious free time, she is likely traveling somewhere (or daydreaming about it), hiking, or playing with her cat, Snickers.
