

Thomas Patti (he/him) is the Communications Coordinator of the Early Conservation Career Network Organizing Committee. Since 2023, he has worked as the Communications Coordinator at Wildlands Trust based in Plymouth. Before then, Thomas completed internships in wildlife monitoring and policy research at Audubon Vermont. He has also interned for Mass Audubon and the Audubon Society of Rhode Island. Thomas received his bachelor's degree in environmental science and English from Brown University. His passion for conservation sprouted in the suburban woods of Newton, Massachusetts. In his free time, Thomas enjoys birdwatching, playing basketball, solving crossword puzzles, and watching horror movies.

